Training Update

Plans are moving along for Health Promotion and Population Health sessions and courses at both the 42nd NEHC Occupational Health and Preventive Medicine Workshop and the 2nd DoD Health Promotion and Population Health Conference.

Health Promotion sessions and courses scheduled for the NEHC Occupational Health and Preventive Medicine Workshop, 14-22 March 2002, in Chesapeake, Virginia, will focus on basic skills and training targeted toward IDCs, PMTs, and any Health Promotion Coordinators or Directors who may not be attending the DoD Health Promotion and Population Health Conference. Courses such as the Health Promotion Basics Course, the ARC HIV/AIDS Fundamentals Instructor Course, Fundamentals of HIV-STD Prevention Counseling, ACS Tobacco Cessation Instructor Course, and Suicide Prevention Training will be offered. Additional training sessions will include such topics as Physical Conditioning in Confined Spaces, Sports Injury Prevention, Population Health Assessment (PHA), and a Population Health Naval Service (PHNS) Computer Demo. A Navy Health Promotion General Session is also scheduled for those Navy Health Promotion Coordinators who are attending the workshop. The Advance Program, with the full workshop agenda, will be posted on the NEHC Workshop Homepage at <http://www-nehc.med.navy.mil> by mid-November. Online registration will begin 1 December.

Planning meetings are just beginning for the second DoD Health Promotion and Population Health Conference, coordinated by US Army Health Promotion (CHPPM). This event, scheduled for 9-16 August 2002 in Baltimore, Maryland, will include DoD and national speakers and will provide a much broader Health Promotion and Population Health training experience for all DoD Health Promotion and Population Health staff. Details regarding this conference will be passed along through the Friday Facts and on the NEHC Health Promotion Conferences & Training Homepage.

Questions regarding the role of Navy Health Promotion and Population Health at either the NEHC Occupational Health and Preventive Medicine Workshop or the DoD Health Promotion and Population Health Conference can be e-mailed to Sally Vickers at <mailto:vickerss@nehc.med.navy.mil>.
